NEW YORK CENTRAL TO MOVE INDEPENDENTLY

Much Significance Attached to Building of New Lines

DEVELOPING RESOURCES

Believed Big System is Laying Plans for Future Wellfare in the Coal Fields

A significant feature in connection with the building of the new line from the Monongahela valley northwest to Carnegie by the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad is that, in the future, the New York Central system, controlling the Pittsburg and Lake Erie expects to move independently in the Pittsburg territory. Under an old triple alliance between the Pennsylvania, New York Central and B. & O. railroad systems the freight tonnage of the Pittsburg district was arbitrarily divided. By the building of the Mingo Valley line to Carnegie, the Lake Erie will break away from this alliance, having suffered much during the last few years from the fact that it was practically cut oft from the great soft coal fields of the Pittsburg district, its main lines passing through territory now about worked out. It is presumed the New York Central is fortifying itself for the future.

One new line to be built from the Monongahela valley will cross the river in the vicinity of Clairton, then will follow Mingo creek for a distance, taking a turn north to Carnegie to join the Pittsburg, Chartiers and Youghiogheny road. This will open up a vast coal field. From a point on this new line a few miles back from the Monongahela river, along Mingo creek, another branch will extend west and south to ap oint in Ten-Mile run, extending as far as Ten Mile in Washington county. This branch will also open up entirely new coal fields that have not been as yet touched. The P & L. E. improvements will be made under the name of Mingo valley and Monongahela railroad.

The line of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie to Carnegie, eliminating Pittsburg, will afford it a direct connection by a short route with Baltimore and Eastern points over the recently built connection to Connellsville, and the Western Maryland route to the east. Eventually perhaps through trains will be run from Baltimore to Chicago by the new route. By the southern route over the Monongahela Railroad and the Buckhannon and Northern the new line will also profit.

There will be a connection with the main line of the P. & L. E. at Coraopolis, through the use of the P. C. & Y. from Carnegie, affording wonderful resources.

The P. & L. E.'s extensions will pass through to the vast acreage owned by the Steel Corporation, the Pittsburg & Westmoreland Coal Company and the Ellsworth Coal company properties and enable it to reach the coking plants of the Ellsworth property and haul direct to Buffalo and to the Lackawanna Steel company, which owns this coal plant.

At the present time all the coke for the Lackawanna Steel company

Gov. Tener Must Sign

Seal of Executive Necessary to Make McMahon and Monessen Boroughs One

The signature of Gov. J. K. Tener is all that is needed now to make the borough of McMahon a part of Monessen borough. The necessary local seals have been affixed to the documents of consolidation of the two boroughs and the papers have been forwarded to Harrisburg. When they are returned with the signature of the chief executive of the Commonwealth, the councilmen, school board members and other officials of McMahon will have passed out of office. They have already tendered their resignations.

PLAN OF BUYING ADOPTED

Pittsburg Marketing Club Endorses Co-operative Idea

FAVOR PARCELS POST

The organization of a co-operative buying club was effected at a meeting of 500 Pittsburg Marketing club members Friday. Committees were appointed to draw up thenecessary bylaws and to lay plans for a permanent organization. The movement is one that is urged by the Pittsburg Marketing club as a pattern for all marketing clubs which are members of the Central Council to follow.

Shares in the new organization will be $5 each and it is proposed that no one can buy more than 20 shares, thus limiting the investment of individual shareholders to $100.

The organization will be effected under the laws of Pennsylvania, which provide for just such a body. It will be entirely distinct from the Marketing Club, which will continue along the line of work already planned, that of investigation as to the causes of high prices in all articles of household supplies and of lending its influence to whatever will bring about a return to a more reasonable standard of living.

Precedng the meeting of the Pittsburg Marketing Club the Central Council, composed of representatives from each of the federated Marketing Clubs in Western Pennsylvania, voted to petition Congress to include the delivery of vegetables and groceries in the parcels post.

Sound, juicy fruit and vegetables, fresh from the sunny South were placed on exhibition before the women who were told how they could get products shipped directly to them at

BIG DEMAND NOW FOR PROJECTILES

Large Plants Running Day and Night to Capacity in Endeavor to Supply Various Countries With Fighting Equipment

It is stated that the war in the Balkans has brought to the Pittsburg district a rush for projectiles from the Russian and United States navy departments. The Firth Sterling Steel company, the biggest manufacturers of projectiles in America, is working its plant to capacity. Last week additional electrical equipment was installed in the great plant at Demmler, ten miles south of Pittsburg and since Sunday the plant has been running day and night.

Prof. John A. Brashear, noted astronomer and manufacturer of lenses for range finders on battleships has his big plant on the north side in Pittsburg operating day and night. Neither the Firth Sterling nor the Brashear company will give any information as the nature of their business is necessarily secret.

But it is known that the Firth Sterling company has been in cable communition with St. Petersburg for a fortnight and a representative of the United States navy is said to be spending his days in the Demmler plant, supervising the expeditious handling of the projectiles for the American navy.

CHARGE POLLUTION OF INDIAN CREEK

Mountain Water Supply Company Which Pipes Water Down This Valley Demands Suspension of Coal Mines

Notices have been served persons and firms operating coal mines in the vicinity of Indian Creek valley not far from Connellsville by the Mountain Water Supply company to suspend operations, not to make any new openings and to cease the alleged pollution of Indian Creek by the draining of sulphur water from the mines. The notices were signed by C. A. Spencer, superintendent of Greensburg and J. B. Hutchinson, president, Philadelphia.

The Mountain Water Supply company, which is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad company entered the Indian Creek Valley six years ago and erected an immense reservoir from which water is piped in two directions to Pittsburg. One of the lines is down the Monongahela valley and the water that is used at the Charleroi passengerstation comes from Indian creek.

"All actions and proceedings to which the Mountain Water Supply company may be legally entitled will be taken in order to protect the purity of its water supply," the notice reads.

A score of operators are affected. Others were notified not to option their coal being warned that there would be trouble. The operators propose to stand pat. Mass meetings have been called to discuss fighting the issue in the courts, if necessary.

DONORA HOTEL IS TRANSFERRED

W. B. Risbeck Disposes of His Business to California Man

W. B. Risbeck, proprietor of Hotel Lawrence, Donora, has asked for the transfer of his license to Frank A. Coatsworth of California. Mr. Coatsworth has filed his petition for the liquor license at the Hotel Lawrence. The court has fixed November 22, at 11:45 a. m., as a time for hearing the petition. Mr. Risbeck gives as his reason for giving up the hotel business as poor health.. The hoted property, where the license is held is owned by J. O. Cunningham of Westmoreland county.

MEETS DEATH BY ACCIDENT IN THE MINE

As the result of injuries sustained Friday while at his work in the Vesta No. 4 mine near California, George Pickering a well known man of that section died at 12:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Pickering was 52 years of age.

Mr. Pickering was engaged in making repairs to machinery in the mine when in some manner he was caught in a belt. He was frightfully hurt, sustaining internal injuries and from the first little hope was entertained for his recovery. Besides his wife he leaves a 13-year-old son at home, two married daughters and a married son.

Funeral services in charge of the Rev. Mr. Renton will be held at the Pickering home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.

C. E. Lantz of Carmichaels was a visitor in Charleroi on business Friday.

Boy Supposedly Killed Meets Mother When She Goes to Pick Up Dead Body

Falling from a second story window and escaping unhurt with the exception of a few bruises is the experience of the 2-year-old son of E. E. Helenn, of Third street, California, Friday.

The little boy was leaning out of a second story window and in some manner lost his balance and went tumbling head over heels at the ground, a distance of 17 feet. The distracted mother rushed out expecting to find the boy with nearly every bone in his body crushed, but much to her surprise he had climbed to his feet and was none the worse of his high dive outside of a few bruises that did not bother him in the least.

CHARGE LEGISLATURE FOR BOOST IN PRICES

Coal Costs Nearly as Much Now as Diamonds Would

MATTER OF LIABILITY

Rumored Big Corporations Do Not Relish Plans of the Lawmakers

It is stated that legislation which it is promised will be enacted at Harrisburg this winter, is boosting the price of coal. It has been boosted considerably during the past summer, and with winter in sight quotations have a soaring tendency.

The Pittsburg Coal company has just sent out a circular to its agents in which it is stated that it has no coal to sell to dealers at any price. They are informed also that slack, nut-and-slack and screened coal contracts made direct with consumers, must be submitted to the general office before being closed. This means that agents will not. in all cases, be allowed to make contracts at prices which the company announces in its circular will prevail during the coming year. These prices are as follows per ton:

One-fourth inch. $1.55; three fourths inch, $1.40; mine run, $1.30; nut, $1.25; nut-and-slack, $1.05; slack, 90 cents. The prevailing prices of the year: soon to close have been One-fourth inch. $1,475; three-fourths inch, $1,325; mine run, $1.175; nut-and slack, 95 cents; slack, 70 cents.

The coal company asserts that its prices are minimum and will stand throughout the year, by which it is meant that there will be no reduction. It is thought, in very well informed circles, that supposing the existing industrial activity is to continue, there will be very considerable increases. The coal production of the present year will be the greatest in the history of the country, up to the present time, but the companies are looking forward to a still greater production next year.

Nothing is said about it publicly but to consumers and agents the explantation is quietly being made that the companies must anticipate legislation which will increase the cost of mining. A highly effective employers' liability bill is the measura which is regarded as most certain to come and effect of which on cost of production will be most pronounced. This legislation is promised in the Republican platform.

In addition to this, the coal men say that promises have been made to the miners by the politicians that a number of measures much desired by them will be passed. One of the most important of these is a bill to make the mine inspectors and similar officers elective by the counties, after the manner of other county officers.

Workers Will Hold Meeting

County and District Sunday School Officials Arrange Important Session

Plans are being made by county Sunday School workers for the most important of all the meetings of the Washington County Sabbath School Association, the annual mid-year conference of all the county and district officers. This meeting will be held in the Jefferson Avenue M. E. church, at Washington next Monday. There are 213 of the officers who are volunteers in interdenominational Sunday School work. Once a year they come together with the purpose of outlining plans for aggressive work that will further the cause of Christianity in the county.

CHURCHES TO BOOST MISSIONS

Home Mission Week to be Observed in Charleroi

SERVICES ARRANGED

Nearly all the Protestant churches of Charleroi will observe Home Mission week next week. The movement is universal and in the larger cities the week will be observed with special nightly services.

At the Methodist Episcopal church Rev. F. A. Richards will conduct services every night next week with the exception of Saturday night. His addresses will all be along the lines of mission work. On Wednesday evening Rev. C. L. C. Richardson, of Pittsburg will give a stereoptican lecture on "Work for Christ in the City."

Rev. F. A. Bright, evangelist will hold forth at the First Christian church in the first week of evangelistic services and his sermons will be somewhat along the line of home mission work.

At the First Presbyterian church, Rev. J. T. Hackett, the pastor will conduct services for mission Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Washington Avenue Presbyterian church will observe the week by services three days. Rev. John R. Burson, the pastor will make addresses.

A special program of addrseses is being arranged to be given at the Baptist church on Wednesday night carrying out the thought of missions.

HIGHER PRICES FOR COAL.

A big increase in the cost of manufacturing is indicated by the proposed advance in the price of coal. It is stated that the Pittsburg Coal Company has suspended all selling prices and has installed a minimum price for certain grades which are a sharp advance over previous rates. This step is necessary, the company declares, on account of prospective legislation, of which the employers' liability bill is one instance which will add greatly to the cost of coal mining.

This increased cost of coal mining, which will advance the cost of fuel, indicates a higher price all along the manufacturing line. The railroads will have a still greater argument to increase their freight rates, and as the same proposed liability bill will increase their cost of operation the same as that of coal mining, and this plus the increased cost of fuel, will mean a double cost. This will be the same with every line of manufacturing, so that an era of still higher prices in manufactured products and transportation [illegible]. Again [illegible] this [illegible] the consumer [illegible] ing and increased [illegible] cultural products. [illegible] brought about the [illegible] much to [illegible] and [illegible].

The proposed buying [illegible] ciation [illegible] in conformance with the laws of Pennsylvania, which are as stringent and protective as the banking laws of the state. The plan thus outlined is not only eminently practical, but is as safe to investors as any banking institution conducted under the laws of the state.

It may be of interest to know that Charleroi has such a co-operative association in successful operation. This institution is incorporated under the laws of the state and is conducted in accordance with the special acts which govern co-operative buying and selling. Stockholders are required to have twenty-five dollars' worth of stock in the association, on which is paid six per cent interest when the stock is paid up. In addition the members get four per cent. on all their purchases. As the association has a membership approximating six hundred, and does a yearly business high up in the tens of thousands, its success it not questioned.

While the Charleroi Marketing Club is urged to organize an association, it should be remembered that the one here is organized on the same plan and is conducted exactly along the same lines. Those who do not already belong to it will do well to investigate its plan of operation.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The Woman's Home Companion relates that at a reception one night a loud-voiced young man was invited to sing. Desultory applause followed, and he responded with a vociferous rendering of "My Old Kentucky Home." The hostess was passing among her guests, beaming at the success of her entertainment and sure that everybody was having a good time, when suddenly to her surprise she came upon a middle-aged man but slightly known to her, who was weeping silently but bitterly in a secluded corner. Thinking that his heart had been touched by the old song, she asked sympathetically:

"Why do you weep? Are you a Kentuckian?"

"No, madame," he replied, "I am a musician."

Apropos of the high cost of living the story is told of a grouchy butcher, who had watched the price of porterhouse steak climb the ladder of fame and was in the throes of an unusually bad grouch when a would-be customer, 8 years old, approached him and handed him a penny.

"Please, mister, I want a cent's worth of sausage."

Turning on the youngster with a growl he let forth this burst of good salesmanship:

"Go smell o' the hook."

Why Blackie Wore the Plaid.

Professor Blackie frequently stayed at Dr. Donald Macleod's house in Glasgow. One night, said the doctor, we were sitting up together. Blackie said in his brusque way, "Whatever other faults I have, I am free from vanity." An incredulous smile on my face roused him. "You don't believe that. Give me an instance." Being thus challenged, I said, "Why do you walk about flourishing a plaid continually?" "I'll give you the history of that, sir. When I was a poor man and when my wife and I had our difficulties she one day drew my attention to the threadbare character of my surtout and asked me to order a new one. I told her I could not afford it just then, when she went, like a noble woman, and put her own plaid shawl on my shoulders, and I have worn a plaid ever since in memory of her loving deed."

Victims of a False Prophet.

Just before the opening of the Kafir rebellion in South Africa, about the middle of the last century, the soothsayers bade the tribes kill their cattle and destroy their crops of grain. The spirits of their ancestors were to arise and help them to exterminate every white man in the country. The advice was solemnly accepted. When the day of the great uprising arrived many of the rebels were already starving. But there came no ghostly herds of cattle out of the earth, no crops not sown with hands. Grim terrible famine swept over the land and in the months which followed, although the authorities did everything in their power to [illegible]

Laws of Old Japan.

One of the most striking changes wrought in Japan during the reign of the last Japanese emperor was that brought about by the abolition of the sumptuary laws. Fifty years ago no Japanese could eat a meal, ride in a conveyance or wear a garment without considering whether the law would be offended. Whatever a man's rank he might not have more than two kinds of soup and six of other eatables at his ordinary meals. Minute regulations were in force as to the quantity of liquor allowed at an official banquet, high dignitaries being limited to three cups and those of inferior rank to two. The use of sedan chairs by men was restricted to the aged and sick. A nobleman of the highest rank was not allowed to spend more than $10 on a dress for his wife, and the lower orders had to adjust their dress bills to a scale fixed according to their income.

A DETECTIVE STORY.

One They Tell In London on Two American Police Officials.

As an illustration of the good nature of Frank Froest, who used to be chief of Scotland Yard, they tell this story in London:

Many years ago two American detectives chanced to be in London together, awaiting the extradition of criminals who had been arrested in England for offenses committed in the United States. The Hotel Victoria was then American headquarters in London, and one evening the two Hawkshaws, who had had a convivial day, fell asleep side by side on a divan in the big smoking room of the hostelry. An American humorist found a pair of handcuffs in the office of the manager of the hotel and proceeded to shackle the pair together, when for two or three hours they slumbered peacefully while the guests of the hotel, American and English, including the ladies, came to gaze upon the scene.

When the detectives finally awakened about 1 o'clock in the morning it was impossible to find a key to the handcuffs and hence impossible to liberate them. They would not hear of sending to a police station for assistance lest the story of their ridiculous plight get out, but they had confidence that Froest, who was then a plain detective inspector, would not betray them. A messenger to Scotland Yard, near by, learned that Froest had gone home long before, but got his address several miles away in the suburbs. An American newspaper man who knew Froest reached his home by cab after 2 o'clock in the morning. He was awakened from slumber and without protest came all the way to the Victoria and released his fellow craftsmen.—New York Sun.

RAZORS IN CHINA.

They Cost Little, but They Are Made From Old Iron Horseshoes.

An interesting feature of Chinese industry is the making of knives and razors from old horseshoes. The local blacksmiths in the interior cities and towns supply the great population of the empire with knives, razors and scissors of an inferior quality at a very small cost. This cutlery comes from small shops, where only one or two men are employed, usually the proprietor and his sons, and is chiefly made from old horseshoes imported from England and the continent. A discarded steel shoe offers the best material for blades, but the blacksmiths prefer the old shoes of soft iron that come from Glasgow and Hamburg.

One British firm at Tientsin brought over a cargo of old horseshoes from Australia recently, but could not dispose of them, as the native smiths said that the iron was too hard. They like the soft iron because it can be more easily worked by their primitive methods.

A razor commonly used by the poorer classes, having a cutting edge of less than two inches, costs 20 Ching tzus (about 9 cents in American currency). Upon the strop the blade takes a fair cutting edge, but is too soft to hold it. Any number of stroppings are necessary before the [illegible] can be completed. After the blades are forged they are simply case hardened and not subjected to the careful tempering employed in the production of western cutlery.—Youth's Companion.

The First Fiction.

The Greek Symposium.

The Greek symposium was literally "drinking together," but before the drinking there was a banquet, more or less elaborate, as the wealth and taste of the host might dictate. The guests came in their best. Even old Socrates, Plato tells us in his "Dialogue" on the subject, was not above taking a little extra pains when he was invited out. Some one met him one day in the market place, "fresh from the bath and sandaled," and as the sight of the sandals was unusual he asked him whither he was going that he was so fine. "To a banquet at Agathon's," he replied, "and I have put on my finery because he is a fine creature. What say you to going with me unbidden?"

A Joke on His Clerical Brother.

Two brothers named Chalmers, one a minister and the other a physician, lived together in a western town. One day a man called at the house and asked for Mr. Chalmers. The physician, who answered the door, replied:

"I am he."

"You've changed considerably since I last heard you preach," said the man, who appeared greatly astonished.

"Oh, it's my brother you want to see; he preaches and I practice."—Kansas City Star.

I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. CHARLEROI WINS FROM MONESSEN

Local High School Rebukes Team From Across River for Defeat Some Time Ago

Charleroi High School administered a stinging rebuke Friday afternoon to the Monessen High School for its defeat a few weeks ago, winning through brilliant playing on the local field by the score of 20 to 9. Well matched the two teams put up a delightful struggle that was won by the Charleroi lads only through superior generalship and the prompt grasping of opportunities.

All three touchdowns were made by Henry Lowstutter. His work would have won him a medal if there had been any medal to win. The whole backfield worked like a well oiled matouchdown after having sneaked in ahead of a Monessen lad to secure a forward pass. Guarded by one of his men he whistled through the Monessenites and planted the ball behind the bars. Campbell did the kicking and landed two out of three trials.

Monessen's only touchdown was made by Baker. Charleroi attempted a forward pass. Baker got there ahead of the Charleroi man and pulling the ball out of the air chased 30 yards to paste it safely behind the chalk. Manown kicked a field goal in the forepart of the game that brought the visitors three points

Leonard a Monessen man who was a line-holder was injured when run into on the sideline, having the ligaments of his ankle torn. The lineup:

Charleroi H.S.—20		Monessen H. S—9

STORY OF THE SEXTANT.

A Chance Observation That Gave Godfrey a Great Idea.

The element of chance plays an important role in invention and in no case is this more strikingly illustrated than in that of Thomas Godfrey, the American who improved upon the quadrant, or rather, devised the sextant, the basic notion for which he got by noting the reflection of the sun from a pail of water.

Godfrey was a glazier by trade, but he had a taste for mathematics and was a man of some culture.

John Hadley had also invented a sextant, apparently a development of a suggestion of Newton's, found among his papers at his death. Godfrey anticipated Hadley by about one year but for a [illegible] time his claims were not recognized, Hadley receiving the [illegible].

Th[illegible] received his inspiration [illegible] that was to [illegible] to mariners. One day [illegible] a pane of glass [illegible] house in Philadelphia opposite a pump, he saw a girl after filling her pail, put it upon the sidewalk. The observant glazier saw the sun reflected from the window on which he had been at work into the bucket of water. His mind quickly perceived the significance of the situation, and he was thus led to the design of an instrument "for drawing the sun down to the horizon," a device incomparably superior to any that had hitherto been used for the ascertainment of angular measurements. Harper's Weekly.

THE CHARLEROI MAIL

VOL. XIII. NO. 99 CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1912 ONE CENT

NEW YORK CENTRAL TO MOVE INDEPENDENTLY

Much Significance Attached to Building of New Lines

DEVELOPING RESOURCES

Believed Big System is Laying Plans for Future Wellfare in the Coal Fields

A significant feature in connection with the building of the new line from the Monongahela valley northwest to Carnegie by the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad is [illegible] the New York Central system, controlling the Pittsburg and Lake Erie expects to move independently in the Pittsburg territory. Under an old triple alliance between the Pennsylvania, New York Central and B & O. railroad systems the freight tonnage of the Pittsburg district was arbitrarily divided. By the building of the Mingo Valley line to Carnegie, the Lake Erie will break away from this alliance, having suffered much during the last few years from the fact that it was practically cut oft from the great soft coal fields of the Pittsburg district, its main lines passing through territory now about worked out. It is presumed the New York Central is fortifying itself for the future.

One new line to be built from the Monongahela valley will cross the river in the vicinity of Clairton, then will follow Mingo creek for a distance, taking a turn north to Carnegie to join the Pittsburg, Chartiers and Youghiogheny road. This will open up a vast coal field. From a point on this new line a few miles back from the Monongahela river, along Mingo creek, another branch will extend west and south to a point in Ten-Mile run, extending as far as Ten Mile in Washington county. This branch will also open up entirely new coal fields that have not been as yet touched. The P & L. E. improvements will be made under the name of Mingo valley and Monongahela railroad.

The line of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie to Carnegie, eliminating Pittsburg, will afford it a direct connection by a short route with Baltimore and Eastern points over the recently built connection to Connellsville, and the Western Maryland route to the east. Eventually perhaps through trains will be run from Baltimore to Chicago by the new route. By the southern route over the Monongahela Railroad and the Buckhannon and Northern the new line will also profit.

There will be a connection with the main line of the P. & L. E. at Coraopolis, through the use of the P. C. & Y. from Carnegie, affording wonderful resources.

The P. & L. E.'s extensions will pass through to the vast acreage owned by the Steel Corporation, the Pittsburg & Westmoreland Coal Company and the Ellsworth Coal company properties and enable it to reach the coking plants of the Ellsworth property and haul direct to Buffalo and to the Lackawanna Steel company, which owns this coal plant.

At the present time all the coke for the Lackawanna Steel company

PLAN OF BUYING ADOPTED

Pittsburg Marketing Club Endorses Co-operative Idea

FAVOR PARCELS POST

The organization of a co-operative buying club was effected at a meeting of 500 Pittsburg Marketing club members Friday. Committees were appointed to draw up the necessary bylaws and to lay plans for a permanent organization. The movement is one that is urged by the Pittsburg Marketing club as a pattern for all marketing clubs which are members of the Central Council to follow.

Shares in the new organization will be $5 each and it is proposed that no one can buy more than 20 shares, thus limiting the investment of individual shareholders to $100.

The organization will be effected under the laws of Pennsylvania, which provide for just such a body. It will be entirely distinct from the Marketing Club, which will continue along the line of work already planned, that of investigation as to the causes of high prices in all articles of household supplies and of lending its influence to whatever will bring about a return to a more reasonable standard of living.

Preceding the meeting of the Pittsburg Marketing Club the Central Council, composed of representatives from each of the federated Marketing Clubs in Western Pennsylvania, voted to petition Congress to include the delivery of vegetables and groceries in the parcels post.

Sound, juicy fruit and vegetables, fresh from the sunny South were placed on exhibition before the women who were told how they could get products shipped directly to them at

BIG DEMAND NOW FOR PROJECTILES

Large Plants Running Day and Night to Capacity in Endeavor to Supply Various Countries With Fighting Equipment

It is stated that the war in the Balkans has brought to the Pittsburg district a rush for projectiles from the Russian and United States navy departments. The Firth Sterling Steel company, the biggest manufacturers of projectiles in America, is working its plant to capacity. Last week additional electrical equipment [illegible] Demmler, ten miles south of Pittsburg and since Sunday the plant has been running day and night.

Prof. John A. Brashear, noted astronomer and manufacturer of lenses for range finders on battleships, has his big plant on the north side in Pittsburg operating day and night. Neither the Firth Sterling nor the Brashear company will give any information as the nature of their business is necessarily secret.

But it is known that the Firth Sterling company has been in cable communication with St. Petersburg for [illegible] the United States navy is said to be spending his days in the Demmler plant, supervising the expeditious handling of the projectiles for the American navy.

CHARGE POLLUTION OF INDIAN CREEK

Mountain Water Supply Company Which Pipes Water Down This Valley Demands Suspension of Coal Mines

Notices have been served persons and firms operating coal mines in the vicinity of Indian Creek valley not far from Connellsville by the Mountain Water Supply company to suspend operations, not to make any new openings and to cease the alleged pollution of Indian Creek by the draining of sulphur water from the mines. The notices were signed by C A Spencer, superintendent of Greensburg and J. B. Hutchinson, president, Philadelphia.

The Mountain Water Supply company, which is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad company entered the Indian Creek Valley six years ago and erected an immense reservoir from which water is piped in two directions to Pittsburg. One of the lines is down the Monongahela valley and the water that is used at the Charleroi passenger station comes from Indian creek.

"All actions and proceedings to which the Mountain Water Supply company may be legally entitled will be taken in order to protect the purity of its water supply," the notice reads.

A score of operators are affected. Others were notified not to option their coal being warned that there would be trouble. The operators propose to stand pat. Mass meetings have been called to discuss fighting the issue in the courts, if necessary.

DONORA HOTEL IS TRANSFERRED

W. B. Risbeck Disposes of His Business to California Man

W. B. Risbeck, proprietor of Hotel Lawrence, Donora, has asked for the transfer of his license to Frank A Coatsworth of California. Mr. Coatsworth has filed his petition for the liquor license at the Hotel Lawrence. The court has fixed November 22, at 11:45 a. m., as a time for hearing the petition. Mr. Risbeck gives as his reason for giving up the hotel business as poor health. The hotel property, where the license is held is owned by J. O. Cunningham of Westmoreland county.

MEETS DEATH BY ACCIDENT IN THE MINE

As the result of injuries sustained Friday while at his work in the Vesta No. 4 mine near California, George Pickering a well known man of that section died at 12:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Pickering was 52 years of age.

Mr. Pickering was engaged in making repairs to machinery in the mine when in some manner he was caught in a belt. He was frightfully hurt, sustaining internal injuries and from the first little hope was entertained for his recovery. Besides his wife he leaves a 13-year-old son at home, two married daughters and a married son.

Funeral services in charge of the Rev. Mr. Renton will be held at the Pickering home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.

C. E. Lantz of Carmichaels was a visitor in Charleroi on business Friday.

UNINJURED IN TWO-STORY FALL

Boy Supposedly Killed Meets Mother When She Goes to Pick Up Dead Body

Falling from a second story window and escaping unhurt with the exception of a few bruises is the experience of the 2-year-old son of E. E. Helenn, of Third street, California, Friday.

The little boy was leaning out of a second story window and in some manner lost his balance and went tumbling head over heels at the ground, a distance of 17 feet. The distracted mother rushed out expecting to find the boy with nearly every bone in his body crushed, but much to her surprise he had climbed to his feet and was none the worse of his high dive outside of a few bruises that did not bother him in the least.

Coal Costs Nearly as Much Now as Diamonds Would

MATTER OF LIABILITY

Rumored Big Corporations Do Not Relish Plans of the Lawmakers

It is stated that legislation which it is promised will be enacted at Harrisburg this winter, is boosting the price of coal. It has been boosted [illegible] during the past summer, and with winter in sight quotations have a soaring tendency.

The Pittsburg Coal company has just sent out a circular to its agents in which it is stated that it has no coal to sell to dealers at any price. They are informed also that slack, nut-and-slack and screened coal contracts made direct with consumers, must be submitted to the general office before being closed. This means that agents will not, in all cases, be allowed to make contracts at prices which the company announces in its circular will prevail during the coming year. These prices are as follows per ton:

One-fourth inch, $1 55; three fourths inch, $1 40, mine run, $1.30; nut, $1 25; nut-and-slack, $1.05; slack, [illegible] cents. The prevailing prices of the year soon to close have been One-fourth inch, $1.475; three-fourths inch, $1.325; mine run, $1.175; nut-and slack, 95 cents; slack, 70 cents.

The coal company asserts that its prices are minimum and will stand throughout the year, by which it is meant that there will be no reduction. It is thought, in very well informed circles, that supposing the existing industrial activity is to continue, there will be very considerable increases. The coal production of the present year will be the greatest in the history of the country, up to the present time, but the companies are looking forward to a still greater production next year.

Nothing is said about it publicly but to consumers and agents the explantation is quietly being made that the companies must anticipate legislation which will increase the cost of mining. A highly effective employers' liability bill is the measure which is regarded as most certain to come and effect of which on cost of production will be most pronounced. This legislation is promised in the Republican platform.

In addition to this, the coal men say that promises have been made to the miners by the politicians that a number of measures much desired by them will be passed. One of the most important of these is a bill to make the mine inspectors and similar officers elective by the counties, after the manner of other county officers.

HIGHER PRICES FOR COAL.

A big increase in the cost of manufacturing is indicated by the proposed advance in the price of coal. It is stated that the Pittsburg Coal Company has suspended all selling prices and has installed a minimum price for certain grades which are a sharp advance over previous rates. This step is necessary, the company declares, on account of prospective legislation, of which the employers' liability bill is one instance which will add greatly to the cost of coal mining.

This increased cost of coal mining, which will advance the cost of fuel, indicates a higher price all along the manufacturing line. The railroads will have a still greater argument to increase their freight rates, and as the same proposed liability bill will increase their cost of operation the same as that of coal mining, and this plus the increased cost of fuel will mean a double cost. This will be the same with every line of manufacturing, so that an era of still higher prices in manufactured products and transportation is in sight. Against this the only salvation for the consumer is the increase of farming and increased production of agricultural products. Until that is brought about the consumer has not much to [illegible].

CO-OPERATIVE BUYING.

The decision of the Pittsburg Marketing Club of women to organize a co-operative buying association, in which all the federated Marketing Clubs of the western part of the state are invited to do likewise, is a practical solution of the high cost of living. The proposed buying association is to be incorporated and conducted in accordance with the laws of Pennsylvania, which are as stringent and protective as the banking laws of the state. The plan thus outlined is not only eminently practical, but is as safe to investors as any banking institution conducted under the laws of the state.

It may be of interest to know that Charleroi has such a co-operative association in successful operation. This institution is incorporated under the laws of the state and is conducted in accordance with the special acts which govern co-operative buying and selling. Stockholders are required to have twenty-five dollars' worth of stock in the association, on which is paid six per cent interest when the stock is paid up. In addition the members get four per cent. on all their purchases. As the association has a membership approximating six hundred, and does a yearly business high up in the tens of thousands, its success it not questioned.

While the Charleroi Marketing Club is urged to organize an association, it should be remembered that the one here is organized on the same plan and is conducted exactly along the same lines. Those who do not already belong to it will do well to investigate its plan of operation.

With the cold winds blowing, keeping the house warm being an impossibility, coal selling at a price that ought to buy its equal weight in diamonds, the gas man cussing you, the water man pushing hard for the money you don't have to give him, the grocery man thrusting out his palm always, is it any wonder a fellow gets discouraged?

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The Woman's Home Companion relates that at a reception one night a loud-voiced young man was invited to sing. Desultory applause followed, and he responded with a vociferous rendering of "My Old Kentucky Home." The hostess was passing among her guests, beaming at the success of her entertainment and sure that everybody was having a good time, when suddenly to her surprise she came upon a middle-aged man but slightly known to her, who was weeping silently but bitterly in a secluded corner. Thinking that his heart had been touched by the old song, she asked sympathetically:

"Why do you weep? Are you a Kentuckian?"

"No, madame," he replied. "I am a musician."

Apropos of the high cost of living the story is told of a grouchy butcher, who had watched the price of porterhouse steak climb the ladder of fame and was in the throes of an unusually bad grouch when a would-be customer, 8 years old, approached him and handed him a penny.

"Please, mister, I want a cent's worth of sausage."

Turning on the youngster with a growl he let forth this burst of good salesmanship:

"Go smell o' the hook."

Why Blackie Wore the Plaid.

Professor Blackie frequently stayed at Dr. Donald Macleod's house in Glasgow. One night, said the doctor, we were sitting up together. Blackie said [illegible] "Whatever other faults I have, I am free from vanity." An incredulous smile on my face roused him. "You don't believe that. Give me an instance." Being thus challenged, I said, "Why do you walk about flourishing a plaid continually?" "I'll give you the history of that, sir. When I was a poor man and when my wife and I had our difficulties she one day drew my attention to the threadbare character of my surtout and asked me to order a new one. I told her I could not afford it just then, whereupon she went, like a noble woman, and put her own plaid shawl on my shoulders, and I have worn a plaid ever since in memory of her loving deed."

Man Who Beheaded Charles I.

The mysterious masked man who beheaded Charles I. was the British analogue for the Man With the Iron Mask. Lilly, the lying astrologer, denounced Cornet Joyce at the restoration, but Joyce on the fatal 30th of January was [illegible] with Cromwell. The parish register of Whitechapel records the burial in 1649 of Richard Brandon, the common hangman, and opposite the entry a contemporary hand wrote that "he cut off the head of Charles the First." Brandon himself asserted that "they made him do it for £30," with which he drank himself to death.—Dundee Advertiser.

Sadly Lacking.

"Did young Charlie Goldie call on you last night?" "Yes. He calls almost every night." "That sounds serious. What sort of young man is he—pretty intelligent?" "Intelligent! Why, say, he doesn't know enough to embrace an opportunity." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

How Could She?

The Standard Tinplate company of Canonsburg has let to the Fort Pitt Bridge Works the contract for the erection of four additional bays to the hot mill department, and the material now is being turned out at the bridge works.

Predict Mild Winter.

Farmers throughout the county are predicting a mild winter. The forecast is based on the corn husks, which this fall are very thin. Those who have observed this sign for a number of years say they never knew it to fail.

Took the Wrong Load.

Herschell McDonald, a farmer of near Buffalo Village went to Washington Monday and hauled to the town a load of drilling paraphernalia belonging to A. B. Scott a Washington water well driller, believing that he was hauling the paraphernalia of Alva McCarty. He discovered his mistake that evening and returned to Washington bright and early next morning and made the exchange.

Corn Show a Success.

The corn show at Old Concord Wednesday of this week was a success. Fully 400 people were present and there were over 60 entrants. The judge was J. M. McKee, the county agriculturalist expert. Three prizes were offered for the best grade of corn. Joseph Day took the first prize, a $5 pair of shoes; Thomas Auld, the second prize a $2.50 pair of gloves and William Shriver won third prize a $1.50 shirt. Ten special prizes were awarded which were donated by farmers of that section.

Country Students Play Basketball.

Interest in basketball has increased during the past week among the students of the Hickory high school and teams have been organized which will play during the coming winter. Two teams will be formed among the girl students and two teams will be made up among the boys. Mr. Conway, principal of the high school and a great admirer of the game will act as coach.

Victims of a False Prophet.

Just before the opening of the Kaffir rebellion in South Africa, about the middle of the last century, the soothsayers bade the tribes kill their cattle and destroy their crops of grain. The spirits of their ancestors were to arise and help them to exterminate every white man in the country. The advice was solemnly accepted. When the day of the great uprising arrived many of the rebels were already starving. But there came no ghostly herds of cattle out of the earth, no crops not sown with hands. Grim, terrible famine swept over the land, and in the months which followed, although the authorities did everything in their power to mitigate its horrors, [illegible] victims of a false prophet starved to death.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

No Trouble For Australian Aborigines to Break Camp.

An Australian aborigine breaks the monotony of his life by frequent visits to other camps, but his preparations for these holidays have a simplicity about them which must appeal to many a worried housewife. It is thus described by Messrs. Spencer and Gillen in "Across Australia:"

"Apart from ceremonies and dances, the one great break in the monotony of [illegible] visits to strange camps [illegible] is not a tedious process [illegible] simply walks out of camp [illegible] his spears, spear thrower, boomerangs and shield; the woman puts the youngest child across her hip, balances a pitchi on her head, [illegible] the child and a digging stick in her free hand. She is ready for the road. The [illegible] children [illegible] look after the puppies, which are never left behind on any account, and, when unable to walk, are carried in pitchis like young babies.

"Two minutes at most is all the time required for an aboriginal family to pack up and start and there is no trouble in regard to the house while the owners are away. If any one chooses to occupy it during their absence he can do so, but the owners will see at a glance who has been in possession while they have been away."

Laws of Old Japan.

One of the most striking changes wrought in Japan during the reign of the last Japanese emperor was that brought about by the abolition of the sumptuary laws. Fifty years ago no Japanese could eat a meal, ride in a conveyance or wear a garment without considering whether the law would be offended. Whatever a man's rank he might not have more than two kinds of soup and six of other eatables at his ordinary meals. Minute regulations were in force as to the quantity of liquor allowed at an official banquet, high dignitaries being limited to three cups and those of inferior rank to two. The use of sedan chairs by men was restricted to the aged and sick. A nobleman of the highest rank was not allowed to spend more than $40 on a dress for his wife, and the lower orders had to adjust their dress bills to a scale fixed according to their income.

A DETECTIVE STORY.

One They Tell In London on Two American Police Officials.

As an illustration of the good nature of Frank Froest, who used to be chief of Scotland Yard, they tell this story in London:

Many years ago two American detectives chanced to be in London together, awaiting the extradition of criminals who had been arrested in England for offenses committed in the United States. The Hotel Victoria was then American headquarters in London, and one evening the two Hawkshaws, who had had a convivial day, fell asleep side by side on a divan in the big smoking room of the hostelry. An American humorist found a pair of handcuffs in the office of the manager of the hotel and proceeded to shackle the pair together, when for two or three hours they slumbered peacefully while the guests of the hotel, American and English, including the ladies, came to gaze upon the scene.

When the detectives finally awakened about 1 o'clock in the morning it was impossible to find a key to the handcuffs and hence impossible to liberate them. They would not hear of sending to a police station for as- [illegible] lous plight get out, but they had confidence that Froest, who was then a plain detective inspector, would not betray them. A messenger to Scotland Yard, near by, learned that Froest had gone home long before, but got his address several miles away in the suburbs. An American newspaper man who knew Froest reached his home by cab after 2 o'clock in the morning. He was awakened from slumber and without protest came all the way to the Victoria and released his fellow craftsmen.—New York Sun.

RAZORS IN CHINA.

They Cost Little, but They Are Made From Old Iron Horseshoes.

An interesting feature of Chinese industry is the making of knives and razors from old horseshoes. The local blacksmiths in the interior cities and towns supply the great population of the empire with knives, razors and scissors of an inferior quality at a very small cost. This cutlery comes from small shops, where only one or two men are employed, usually the proprietor and his sons, and is chiefly made from old horseshoes imported from England and the continent. A discarded steel shoe offers the best material for blades, but the blacksmiths prefer the old shoes of soft iron that come from Glasgow and Hamburg.

One British firm at Tientsin brought over a cargo of old horseshoes from Australia recently, but could not dispose of them, as the native smiths said that the iron was too hard. They like the soft iron because it can be more easily worked by their primitive methods.

A razor commonly used by the poorer class, having a cutting edge of less than two inches, costs 20 Tung tzus, about 9 cents in American currency. Upon the strop the blade takes a fair cutting edge, but is too soft to hold it. Any number of stroppings are necessary before the act of shaving can be completed. After the blades are forged they are simply case hardened and not subjected to the careful tempering employed in the production of western cutlery.—[illegible]

The First Fiction.

The "Tale of Two Brothers," written 3,200 years ago by the Theban scribe, Ennana, librarian of the palace to King Meneptah, the supposed Pharaoh of the Exodus, is the oldest work of fiction extant. The tale was written apparently for the entertainment of the crown prince, who subsequently reigned as Seti II. His name appears [illegible] in the manuscript—probably [illegible] autograph signatures of [illegible] king. This [illegible] written on nineteen sheets of papyrus in a light [illegible] hand, was purchased in Italy by Mme. d'Orbiney, who sold it in 1857 to the trustees of the British museum, where it is now known as the D'Orbiney papyrus.

A Wonderful Child.

Zerah Colburn, when a child, had the most wonderful memory for figures ever known. He performed operations of [illegible] and division on sums involving from eleven to twenty places of figures without setting one down on paper. Being once asked to raise eight to the sixteenth power, he almost instantly responded: "The answer is 281,474,976,710,656."

Queer Wasting.

"Mrs. Codgers is dreadfully afraid of embonpoint," remarked Mrs. Gadsley.

"Is that so?" chirped Mrs. Wopper. "My favorite aunt had it and the poor thing just wasted away!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Greek Symposium.

The Greek symposium was literally "drinking together," but before the drinking fully began there was a banquet, more or less elaborate, as the wealth and taste of the host might dictate. The guests came in their best. Even old Socrates, Plato tells us in his "Dialogue" on the subject, was not above taking a little extra pains when he was invited out. Some one met him one day in the market place, "fresh from the bath and sandaled," and as the sight of the sandals was unusual he asked him whither he was going that he was so fine. "To a banquet at Agathon's," he replied, "and I have put on my finery because he is a fine creature. What say you to going with me unbidden?"

A Joke on His Clerical Brother.

Two brothers named Chalmers, one a minister and the other a physician, lived together in a western town. One day a man called at the house and asked for Mr. Chalmers. The physician, who answered the door, replied:

"I am he."

"You've changed considerably since I last heard you preach," said the man, who appeared greatly astonished.

"Oh, it's my brother you want to see; he preaches and I practice."—Kansas City Star.

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but dreaded it so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 8, Murrayville, Ill.

CHARLEROI WINS FROM MONESSEN

Local High School Rebukes Team From Across River for Defeat Some Time Ago

Charleroi High School administered a stinging rebuke Friday afternoon to the Monessen High School for its defeat a few weeks ago, winning through brilliant playing on the local field by the score of 20 to 9. Well matched the two teams put up a delightful struggle that was won by the Charleroi lads only through superior generalship and the prompt grasping of opportunities.

All three touchdowns were made by Henry Lowstutter. His work would have won him a medal if there had been any medal to win. The whole backfield worked like a well oiled matouchdown after having sneaked in [illegible] a forward pass. Guarded by one of his men he whistled through the Monessenites and planted the bull behind the bars. Campbell did the kicking and landed two out of three trials.

Monessen's only touchdown was made by Baker. Charleroi attempted a forward pass. Baker got there ahead of the Charleroi man and pulling the ball out of the air chased [illegible] yards to paste it safely behind the chalk. Manown kicked a field goal in the forepart of the game that brought the visitors three points.

Leonard a Monessen man who was a line-holder was injured when run into on the sideline, having the ligaments of his ankle torn. The lineup:

Charleroi H.S.—20		Monessen H. S.—9
Wagner	LE	M. Conti, Rhine
Malcolm	LT	Miller
Hugus	LG	Odbert
Gant	C	Sutman
Carson	RG	Moore
T. Lowstutter	RT	Hendrickson
Smith	RE	T. Conti
Campbell	QB	Manown

Touchdowns—H. Lowstutter 3, Baker.. Field goal—Manown. Goals from touchdowns—Campbell 2. Referee—Springer, W. & J. Umpire—Balbridge, W. & J. Head linesman—F. Mangan. Timekeeper—T. Mangan and Miller.

MUCH LOCAL INTEREST IN GAME TODAY

Much interest is being manifested locally in the football game today between the Universiay of Pittsburg and Washington and Jefferson college at Pittsburg and a number are attending t he game from here. Among those who went are: Edwin Patton, Guy Moffitt, Esq., Harold Smith, Lloyd Wagner, Lloyd Bowers, C. S. Bliss, William Kuhn, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Moody. Mr. Moody has a brother who is a member of the W. & J. squad.

STORY OF THE SEXTANT.

A Chance Observation That Gave Godfrey a Great Idea.

The element of chance plays an important role in invention and in no case is this more strikingly illustrated than in that of Thomas Godfrey, the American who improved upon the quadrant, or, rather, devised the sextant, the basic notion for which he got by noting the reflection of the sun from a pail of water.

Godfrey was a glazier by trade, but he had a taste for mathematics and was a man of some culture.

John Hadley had also invented a sextant, apparently a development of a suggestion of Newton's, found among his papers at his death. Godfrey anticipated Hadley by about one year, but for a long time his claims were not recognized, Hadley receiving the entire credit.

The glazier thus received his inspiration for the instrument that was to prove of such value to mariners. One day, while replacing a pane of glass in a window of a house in Philadelphia opposite a pump, he saw a girl, after filling her pail, put it upon the sidewalk. The observant glazier saw the sun reflected from the window on which he had been at work into the bucket of water. His mind quickly perceived the significance of the situation, and he was thus led to the design of an instrument "for drawing the sun down to the horizon," a device incomparably superior to any that had hitherto been used for the ascertainment of angular measurements.—Harper's Weekly.
